

More Violence Expected in Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Negro leaders have urged renewed desegregation efforts in this Deep South city where police dogs crushed violence during demonstrations Sunday.

At least 29 Negroes were arrested as police halted a prayer march led by the Rev. A. D. King, brother of integration leader Martin Luther King Jr.

More demonstrations were scheduled today. Blind singer Al Hibbler—of "You'll Never Walk Alone" fame—volunteered to help in the desegregation effort.

Violence broke out when a knife-wielding Negro tried to slash a police dog.

The dog downed the man and a surging crowd of more than 200 Negroes moved to the man's rescue.

About 50 policemen and at least six other dogs jumped into the fray. The crowd broke and ran, with the dogs and patrolmen at its heels.

Police Commissioner Eugene (Bull) Connor shouted to newsmen: "Look at that dog got! That's what we train them for—to enforce the law."

The fracas was over within seconds. Six policemen held down the Negro who attacked the dog. He was among those arrested.

Twenty-three marchers led by King were arrested on charges of violating a city code which prohibits parading without a permit.

At least four others were arrested after the riot, mostly on charges of failure to move on the orders of a police officer.

Negroes were called for a mass meeting at a nearby church less than 30 minutes after the incident. "It may be you they put the dogs on next time," a minister shouted over a loudspeaker.

Ninety-six Negroes have been arrested since the demonstrations began last Wednesday—the day after Birmingham elected former Lt. Gov. Albert Boutwell as mayor—to end the political regime of Connor, a nationally known segregationist.

Thirty-two were arrested Saturday during a similar march.

The Sunday marchers were halted within three blocks of their destination Police Capt. George Wall gave them one minute to disperse.

The Negroes knelt to pray. The prayer leader, the Rev. John T. Porter of Birmingham, cried, "Father, forgive them (the police) for they know not what they do."

Wall waited for more than three minutes until the prayer was finished, then ordered them to the paddy wagons.

To Abolish Game Warden Title

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Though no personnel change is involved, after July 1, Arkansas will have no more game wardens.

The title of Game Warden is being abandoned by the Game and Fish Commission in favor of the title Wildlife Officer.

Game and Fish Commission Director Nelson Cox said the commission believes that the new title is more in keeping with the duties performed by men now called wardens.

Cox said when the title Game Warden was selected in 1915 it properly identified the duties of field employees.

He pointed out that in recent years new duties have been added to the jobs of wardens so that they now spend a good part of their time in other phases of the game and fish program.

Canadians to Vote on New Prime Minister

By BEN BASSETT

TORONTO (AP)—Fine weather across Canada promised a record vote today in a national election which most analysts expect will make Lester B. Pearson, 65, the nation's prime minister.

"I think the tide has turned," the Liberal party leader said as he ended a campaign tour of more than 20,000 miles and returned to his Ottawa home to await tonight's tabulation of votes.

Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker, home in Saskatchewan after a "Give 'em Hell" tour that ran 26,000 miles, expressed confidence, too. But qualified observers, after soundings in all 10 provinces, concluded that only a major upset could save Diefenbaker's Conservative party from a drubbing.

Diefenbaker, 67, became prime minister in 1957, ending 22 years of Liberal rule. In 1958 he scored the greatest victory in Canadian history, but since then his popularity has been slipping. An indecisive election last June left the Conservatives in a minority in the House of Commons, and that led to today's election.

Among those anticipating a Pearson victory the major question was whether the Liberals could win as many as 133 of the 265 House of Commons seats and thus have clear sailing as the majority party. Many forecasts centered on estimates of 110-125 Liberal seats. The Liberals then would need support from other parties in order to govern.

Diefenbaker, under similar circumstances, had 116 seats from last June until his government was overturned in February on a

Boxing Claims Another Man, Probe Starts

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—The Pennsylvania Athletic Commission, under orders by the governor to investigate the ring death of a 19-year-old boxer Saturday night, summoned today several officials to give their version in the opening of a formal inquiry.

In the wake of the death of Francisco Velasquez shortly after he was knocked out during the amateur benefit bout in nearby Carbondale, it was expected there would be new demands to outlaw boxing in the state. A bill already has been introduced in the state senate to outlaw the sport.

Velasquez, of Luquillo, Puerto Rico, who was stationed with the Army at the nearby Tobyhanna Depot, was knocked out in the second round of a scheduled three-round middleweight bout. His was the fifth ring death this year and the second which occurred Saturday night. A similar tragedy occurred in Gympie, Australia.

Dr. Paul E. Kubasko, Lackawanna County coroner, said an autopsy showed Velasquez' death was caused by a massive intracranial hemorrhage and that the hemorrhage resulted from multiple contusions of the brain.

Kubasko said the autopsy showed no previous brain damage. Authorities said Velasquez was a veteran of 32 amateur fights and appeared to be in excellent physical condition for the bout against 17-year-old Earl Johnson of the St. Michael's High School for Boys in nearby Hoban Heights.

Velasquez never regained consciousness and died about 15 minutes after the fight.

Killed Saturday night in the professional fight in Gympie was Norman Smith, 26. The fight was stopped at the end of the second round and Smith was carried unconscious from the ring.

U of A Student Is a Suicide

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (A)—The death Sunday of a 21-year-old University of Arkansas student from Pine Bluff was ruled suicide today by Washington County Coroner Dr. Donald Baker.

Baker said an autopsy showed Phillip M. Jolley died of cyanide poisoning.

Police Chief Hollis Spencer said a bottle of cyanide was found in the room where the student's body was discovered.

Wayward Tank Startled Them

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—A pliffed M-48 tank clanked back and fourth in a city park for half an hour just before midnight, startling spectators on end.

Police played a futile game of tag with the 38-ton vehicle, taken from a National Guard armory close by. Finally it rumbled across a small creek. By the time officers detoured and caught up, the tank was abandoned.

Fatal Accidents in State 16

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two persons were killed and two were injured Sunday in an automobile accident on U.S. Highway 70, about two miles west of Palestine, bringing Arkansas violent death toll for the week ended Sunday midnight to 16.

State Police identified the dead as Herman Lee, 60, and Catherine Stephens, 21, both of Palestine.

Taken to a Forrest City hospital in critical condition were George Lewis McClain, 31, of Morrison, Tenn., and Ramell Bridges, 23, of Palestine.

Officers said the car in which the Palestine residents were passengers was attempting to cross the highway when it was struck by the McClain automobile. Driver of the first car was not determined.

A 2-year-old North Little Rock girl was killed Sunday when she was hit by a car.

Governor to Study Police Curtailment

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today he will take a close look at how an economy curtailment of State Police services is being handled.

Faubus indicated in a news conference that he is dissatisfied with some aspects of the curtailment.

"We're getting some complaints that these troopers may be spending too much time parked beside the road," Faubus said. "Parking has some good effects but it can be overdone."

Faubus also indicated that there will be a crackdown on expense account spending by troopers. "I don't believe in padded or falsified expense accounts," he said. "If these troopers are getting expensive money as part of their salaries, it should be stopped."

Faubus repeated his position that the State Police Department will live within its revenues regardless of the curtailment required, even if this means releasing some troopers.

And he was firm in his view that the principal function of the State Police—patrolling the highways—will be the last service to go.

"If we don't patrol the highways," he said, "we might as well abolish the State Police."

The governor told newsmen "not to go out on a limb" in speculation about the possibility of a special legislative session to raise additional money for the State Police.

"You know I won't call a special session unless I know what's going to happen," he said. "And I'm not very enthusiastic right now about calling one."

The governor also said that details of a proposed reorganization of the National Guard should be ready for release this week.

"I think we've got it all worked out," he said. "It's just a matter of confirming it."

He sighed and added, "This is one of the roughest things I've ever been in."

Faubus dropped a few clues about the reorganization. It already was known that the state will lose some artillery and engineer units. The governor said today some of these will be replaced by tank units.

Although it may be easier to recruit personnel for armored units, he said, he does not feel the overall status of the Guard in Arkansas will be improved by the changes.

Localities which will get armored units are not as pleased as they might be, Faubus said.

"If this had been put out by saying we have a chance to get these units, someone might have wanted them," he said. "But this is a situation where you've got to take it and we're getting protests."

Faubus said he would appoint a special judge to the Arkansas Supreme Court in the next two or three days. The court needs a special judge to consider four 1958 segregation acts because Justice Frank Holt has disqualified himself.

The court passed oral arguments on the acts this morning, apparently because the special judge had not been named.

Laos Fighting Is Blamed on Reds by Rusk

By PATRICK MCNULTY

PARIS (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk accused pro-Communist forces in Laos today of obstructive tactics and warned that tension is rising in the Asian kingdom.

As fighting erupted between neutralist and pro-Communist Pathet Lao troops, Rusk called on the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization to be vigilant.

Rusk told a meeting of SEATO ministers that "a tragic and deplorable series of developments has increased tensions in the Plain des Jars" of east-central Laos. It is there that the Pathet Lao has forced a withdrawal of neutralist forces under Gen. Kong Le.

Laos is not a member of SEATO but it is part of an area the SEATO powers are pledged to protect from Communist aggression.

Later today Rusk will meet with French President Charles de Gaulle, possibly to try to win acceptance of a U.S. plan for a multinational nuclear force in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Defends U.S. Foreign Aid Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said today any attempt to return to a fortress America concept of national defense "would lead, not to self-preservation, but to slow suicide."

"It follows, therefore," McNamara told the House Foreign Affairs Committee, "that there is no acceptable alternative to the military assistance program through which the United States shares with its allies and friends both the burdens and the benefits of maintaining adequate free world power for peace."

McNamara was the second big administration figure before a committee in defense of the administration's $4.5-billion foreign aid budget request.

He followed Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who on Friday sharply criticized those in favor of gutting foreign aid. McNamara's statement contained no such strong wording.

McNamara said the Allied forces supported by the military assistance program are a "vital asset for collective security."

The military assistance request for the fiscal year that starts July 1 is $1.4 billion. McNamara said this represents a phasing down trend.

"Barring any large-scale unforeseen emergency, we hope to reduce the new obligatory authority budget to a level of a billion dollars by no later than fiscal year 1969," he said.

Herb Score Will Quit Baseball

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Herb Score, frustrated in a six-year comeback try, has called it a career at an age when most pitchers are just hitting their stride.

Score, once considered a million dollar baseball property, said he was giving up the game after he was notified by the Chicago White Sox Sunday that he was being optioned to Indianapolis.

"I have talked it over with my wife," the 29-year-old lefty said, "and I have decided to quit the game."

Score, who twice led the American League in strikeouts, worked two scoreless innings in Chicago's 2-1 exhibition victory over Cincinnati, but manager Al Lopez said he was being optioned out to give him more work than he could get with the parent club.

Score, a tall, fast-ball artist with a whip-lash delivery, was named American League Rookie of the Year after a 16-10 season in 1955 with Cleveland. He soared to 20-9 in 1956 and the Indians turned down a million dollar offer from Boston for him.

Then, in 1957, he was struck over the eye by a line drive off the bat of Gil McDougald of the Yankees. He recovered from the injury, but never regained his pitching form.

In six years of frustrations as he attempted a comeback, he did not have a winning season in the majors. He was in the minors most of last season.

Score's announcement and a solid if unspectacular performance by New York's ailing Whitey Ford highlighted the closing exhibition games.

Ford, who had been troubled with an aching arm, allowed only two hits and an unearned run in three innings in the Yankees' 9-3 loss to Milwaukee at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

In other final exhibitions, Detroit nipped Minnesota 4-3 at Knoxville, the Orioles edged the New York Mets 3-1 at Baltimore, Washington dumped Pittsburgh 5-1 at Kinston, N.C., San Francisco beat Cleveland 5-2 at Salt Lake City, the Angels blanked the Dodgers 3-0 and swept the two-game Los Angeles city series, Houston edged Kansas City 3-1 in 10 innings at Wichita, St. Louis outlasted Philadelphia 7-6 at Atlanta and Boston nipped the Chicago Cubs 3-2 at Denver.

Canadians to vote of no-confidence triggered by a dispute over whether Canada should have nuclear weapons.

Canada has acquired Bomarc missiles in cooperation with the United States and at one time planned to equip them with U.S. nuclear warheads. A U.S. State Department report that Canada was dragging its heels split the Cabinet and set off the debate that defeated Diefenbaker in Parliament.

This became the prime issue in the election campaign. Underlying all this was the perennial question of U.S.-Canadian relations. Diefenbaker said he wanted to see Canada "a power — not a puppet." Pearson said his opponent was "twisting the eagle's tail feathers."

Two last-minute rumors were expected to have little effect. One concerned an alleged State Department working paper of 1961 said to refer slightly to Diefenbaker. And a Vancouver newspaper reported that U.S. Ambassador W. Walton Butterworth had written a letter welcoming Pearson's stand on nuclear weapons.

Economic questions — perhaps meant more to the average voter than the nuclear question. While the nation as a whole is prosperous, much of this is due to U.S. investment. Canada has been running trade deficits and 1 of every 12 in the working force is jobless.

In the light of the Diefenbaker government's rate of progress on problems like these, many of his best friends have turned against him.

In last June's election the Liberals, doubling the showing they made in 1958, won 100 seats. The Conservatives slipped from 208 to 116.

The major surprise last time was the showing of the Social Credit party. This rightist party, called by foes the "funny money" party because it wants new avenues of purchasing power opened

A DEAD ENDING

By Judson Phillips

Copyright © 1962 by Judson Phillips Distributed by Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

THE STORY: Dawn Terrill tells Cornelius Ryan that her mother did not tell the entire truth about the two men who raided her apartment in the afternoon searching for something. Dawn thinks her mother knew one of them.

Chapter VII

"Look, Dawn," I said, "I'm not sure what my position is in this case. Matt Higby is consulting my firm about the possibility of bringing an action for slander against General Hooper for something the General said about Matt in a public hearing. I've told him he probably has a cause for action, but that he should consider the possibility of other unpleasantnesses being brought out into the open. He brought me to your apartment to make it clear to me why he just had to buy Thorobreds. It's to please your mother. I don't know whether those two men who broke into your place have anything to do with my client's specific problem or not. I won't know until I talk to him again. Tell me something. Who is your father and where is he?"

"Dead," Dawn said. "He's been dead almost 10 years. He was a sort of dilettante publisher — special, offbeat books. Guy Terrill. We lived as though he died there was nothing but debts. Not even insurance."

I waited, without pushing it. "I was sent to a convent school when my father died," Dawn said. "My mother had been an industrial designer before she married — a good one. She designed packaging for foehfumes and cosmetics and other women's products. She tried to go back into it, but she'd lost her touch. She was drinking. I don't know how she lived for the seven years I was in school. Mr. Ryan. She used to come to see me, but I never came to see her. She had an apartment over on the west side of town, but I never saw it. When I graduated from school and had to come home there was our present apartment I and Mr. Higby."

"And you don't like him?" "He's like a spaniel dog, following her around, hoping she'll pat him on the head. She takes everything he offers and gives him nothing. I don't like her for that and I don't like him for being had."

"That's not quite your mother's story."

"Mother's stories always make her look good," Dawn said. She stood up abruptly, aiming her cigarette at the fireplace. I bent down and picked it up off the hearth where it landed.

"To my everlasting astonishment she took a quick step to me, her arms went around my neck and she was kissing me on the mouth — a hard, punishing kiss. Then she jumped away from me as though she'd been scalded."

"What's the matter with me?" she cried out in a kind of despair. "You didn't respond to me. Nobody ever responds to anything I have to offer."

And before I could answer she'd run across to the door and was gone.

The telephone woke me the next morning about 10 minutes ahead of my alarm clock. It was Jake Kramer.

"Our boy is being held downtown on suspicion of homicide," he said.

"What boy?" "Higby. Who else?" "I was wide awake now. "How do you know?" "Our friend the General. It seems his nephew Dennis Hooper — who was, incidentally, the apple of the General's eye and his sole heir — was on the General's staff at the Commission offices. He took it on himself — quite wrongly, the General admits — to try to get something on Higby by searching the Terrill apartment. He called the General and told him about it when it was over. The General was outraged — soldier and gentleman, you understand. He broke away from a meeting he was attending and went to his nephew's apartment to give him a good dressing down. Someone else had dressed him down ahead of time — with the proverbial blunt instrument."

"How do they tie Higby into it?" I asked.

There was an acid edge to Jake's voice. "Naturally the General thought of our Matthew, Corney. He knew Matt would be angry about what had happened at the Terrill's. The General advised the police to check on Matt — just in case. So the police did check on our Matthew. They picked him up as he was about to let himself into Mrs. Terrill's apartment with a key about 1 a.m. And where had our Matthew been for the last six or seven hours, Corney?"

"Just walking around," I said, my mouth dry.

"Bull's-eye," Jake said. "How did you get all the dope?" "Homicide cop. Lieutenant Cash. Old friend of mine. He made the arrest. He isn't satisfied. He made the arrest. He thinks our Matthew may be covering for someone."

"Like for instance?" "Like Mrs. Frances Terrill or her daughter," Jake said. "From what you told me he'd go cheerfully to the electric chair if it would help Mrs. Terrill."

3,000 Cubans Train With U.S. Army

By ELTON C. FAY AP Military Affairs Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 3,000 Cubans are training in the U.S. armed forces, the Defense Department said today.

Most are refugees who fled to this country. Others are veterans of the unsuccessful 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion—men who were imprisoned by the Castro government and then released for return to the United States.

The Cubans will not be organized into any special unit but assigned to various Army, Navy, Marine and Air Force units as they complete their training at four bases.

The program, the Pentagon announced at the outset, was intended to:

1. Assist refugees who have encountered difficulty in getting jobs here.
2. To develop the Cubans, "skills and abilities by service" in the U.S. forces.

President Kennedy at his news conference Wednesday, commented that 400 to 500 Cubans have joined the U.S. Army, identifying them as former members of the Bay of Pigs operation.

In his brief reference, the President did not refer to the fact that two programs now are under way and that the majority of the volunteers are average refugees.

The first program was started last September. It permits any Cuban national who qualifies under physical and other standards to enlist. By December about 1,700 were in training under that program.

In February, the Defense Department said it was making available a special military training program for both officers and men of the Bay of Pigs unit.

At present, 2,935 Cubans are training for ground forces services including the Army and Marine Corps.

On training for service in the Navy and Marine Corps are 21 officers and two enlisted men.

The Air Force has 28 Cubans in its training program—24 officers and four enlisted men.

ized into any special unit but assigned to various Army, Navy, Marine and Air Force units as they complete their training at four bases.

The program, the Pentagon announced at the outset, was intended to:

1. Assist refugees who have encountered difficulty in getting jobs here.
2. To develop the Cubans, "skills and abilities by service" in the U.S. forces.

President Kennedy at his news conference Wednesday, commented that 400 to 500 Cubans have joined the U.S. Army, identifying them as former members of the Bay of Pigs operation.

In his brief reference, the President did not refer to the fact that two programs now are under way and that the majority of the volunteers are average refugees.

The first program was started last September. It permits any Cuban national who qualifies under physical and other standards to enlist. By December about 1,700 were in training under that program.

In February, the Defense Department said it was making available a special military training program for both officers and men of the Bay of Pigs unit.

At present, 2,935 Cubans are training for ground forces services including the Army and Marine Corps.

On training for service in the Navy and Marine Corps are 21 officers and two enlisted men.

The Air Force has 28 Cubans in its training program—24 officers and four enlisted men.

Schools for Wives Are Suggested

By MAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Schools for wives?

One of the possible faults of the American educational system is that we have too many colleges for women and too few schools for wives.

More women go into housewifery than any other occupation, and they spend more years working at it than they do anything else in life. But few really prepare properly for it. They learn their great craft by guess, grope and grapple.

Why not schools for wives then to teach a girl the basic things she needs to know to be a successful homemaker? After all, the existing colleges for women aren't doing the job too well. This is shown by the fact so many of their graduates never get around to marrying at all.

They may be able to talk learnedly on international political problems, but they are generally less artful than the average high school graduate in attracting and holding a husband.

My idea of a practical school for wives is one staffed by a faculty made up of men and women instructors each of whom had been married 30 years or more. You can't beat actual experience when it comes to teaching the know-how of successful living.

What would a graduate of a good school for wives be like? Well, here's one mere husband's idea:

She'd be trained to hold some kind of a job outside the home if she had to.

She'd be able to pin up a diaper or sew on a button without wounding herself.

She could cook up a tasty dish without using either an ice pick or a can opener.

She would be skillful on the typewriter and a passable performer on at least one musical instrument, preferably the piano.

She would love poetry, but after the honeymoon never insist that her husband read it to her aloud.

She would never send her husband off to work without first fixing him a good substantial breakfast.

She'd be able to balance her household budget three months out of five.

She'd be able to have a gay time at cocktail parties without discussing her emotional problems with total strangers.

She'd never complain "I don't have a thing to wear," but always magically manage to have one good-looking dress hanging in her closet.

She wouldn't hesitate to spank her children with a hairbrush when they needed punishment.

There'd be no nonsense about marriage being a 50-50 proposition. She'd pull most of the strings at home but let him run his job at the office in his own way.

She'd have an unspoken but ironclad agreement with her husband to keep their arguments within the home and never discuss each other's faults with outsiders.

Oh, she'd have a few other splendid qualities, but you get the general idea.

Schools for wives. Why not? What's to lose?

Police Report Is Inconclusive

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Members of the Legislative Audit Committee received preliminary figures on State Police Department finances over the weekend but they were reported to be inconclusive.

Figures showed the State Police has been spending well beyond its revenues each year but in 1962 it should have had a surplus after getting a $400,000 windfall. Instead, it apparently borrowed another $295,000.

The audit was requested by Craighead County Rep. Norman Wimpy, Senator Q. Byrum Hurst, chairman of the Legislative Audit Committee, said the audit would be made immediately.

Figures received by members of the committee over the weekend showed finances of the state police for the last three years.

Will Seek to Lead State GOPs

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Jim Allen, a Little Rock insurance salesman, has announced that he will seek the presidency of the Young Republican League of Arkansas at the State Convention in Little Rock April 26-27.

Allen and Ivo Phelps, president of the Pulaski County Young Republican clubs, jointly announced Allen's candidacy Saturday.

The Pulaski County group will support Allen in his campaign.

Phelps said that the group would also support Mrs. Jewel Jacoly and Don Jones, Jr. for state offices.

Allen is a native of Illinois and a graduate of Southern Illinois University.

Miss Claudia Louise McCorkle
Mr. and Mrs. Hallar McCorkle announce the engagement of their daughter, Claudia Louise, to Travis England, son of Joe England and the late Mrs. England.
Miss McCorkle is a graduate of Hope High School and Henderson State Teachers College. She is now teaching in the Stephens School System. Mr. England is a graduate of Hope High and attended Southern State College. He is employed by Camenson Feed Company in Hope.

DOROTHY DIX

IS GI ENTITLED TO HIS MEMORIES

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: Having been unhappily married once, I was determined to make a success of the second attempt, if only for the sake of my five children. I met a GI who seemed a perfect prospective mate. After a month's frenzied courtship we were married and he changed overnight from a friendly, easy-going fellow into a tyrant, cruel even to my children. He had one of his own by a previous marriage which didn't help matters.

He was corresponding with a girl whom he had promised to marry when stationed in Germany. One day, in tidying his bureau drawer, I found three of her letters in answer to his. Unaware of my existence, she was going ahead with the wedding plans. Heartbroken, I confronted him with the evidence that night.

He picked up his hat and left the house. The army chaplain on the base advised me to be patient. Finally, I wrote the German girl. Her mother replied, saying that her daughter still had her wedding dress and was waiting for my husband to return as promised. That was 15 years ago.

What happened to the poor German girl is anybody's guess. In these intervening years he's gone from one woman to another. What money I had is almost spent but somehow I find the courage to take the children and leave. However, each time, being weak, I return when he begs me to come home. Our marriage continues a revolving door. He left two weeks ago on maneuvers. That packet of letters from the German girl went with him; mine he tore up. When he returned yesterday, I asked if he still wrote the German girl. He sprang at me like a tiger, crying that at least he was entitled to his memories and, for my information, he would never destroy the German girl's picture or letters. He refuses to discuss our shaky, faltering marriage. What can I do? —Desolate

Dear Desolate: Your problem stems from not standing firm the first time you left your husband. Now, either walk out for keeps or stay and pick up the pieces in the hope that his yen for the girls will wane as he ages. Be realistic; two-timing is second nature to a confirmed chaser.

Ask yourself if you and the children would be better off with or without your husband. Should you divorce, could he pay sufficient alimony to support six people? If not, would you be able to find a job? Are the children old enough to look out for themselves while you work? If the answers to these questions are in the negative, then adapt yourself to conditions as they are, stop the nagging and snooping and live up to your part of the bargain. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Successful Marriage."

Dear Helen: A while back you printed a letter from a girl who objected to her mother's boasting of her ability to attract men young and old. The daughter complained that the mother regarded herself as a femme fatale. I say the daughter is plain jealous. I happen to work in a large company where women and men in the thirties, forties and fifties are employed. Regardless of age, they take pride in their appearance and are attractive. I myself could fall for an older man if well-groomed and a gentleman.

That girl should be proud of a mother who has the spirit to continue to enjoy life. Do you agree? —L., Baltimore, Md.

Dear L.: Of course I agree. Certainly every woman should take pride in her appearance, regardless of age. Proper grooming, a trim figure and clothes - consciousness are important. But the development of character, dignity and self-sufficiency are equally essential. Once a woman attains these three she has arrived at a maturity which defies the years. Such a person will never lack for attention or friends in the best sense.

Dear Helen: I'm fighting mad over these silly little teenagers who say you. They may think it smart to make-up and date at 12 and 13, but they're playing a losing game.

I never wore lipstick till I was 16 nor dated till 17. My parents think the world of me and I of them. Many's the time I've turned to them. Right now they're helping me toward my heart's desire - a nursing career. Although only 19 I face life confidently backed by their love and belief in me. So could other teenagers if they would only look to their parents for guidance and love. —Joyce

Retirement for AEA Employees

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Forrest Rozzell, executive secretary of the Arkansas Education Association, said Saturday that AEA employees would be provided with a retirement program.

Rozzell said the executive committee of the AEA Board planned to develop an annuity program that would provide retirement benefits for present and future AEA employees.

A State Supreme Court ruling last month cut employees of the AEA from the State Teacher Retirement System.

Rozzell said the proposed retirement plan would be presented at the June 1 AEA Board meeting.

Regardless of age. Proper grooming, a trim figure and clothes - consciousness are important. But the development of character, dignity and self-sufficiency are equally essential. Once a woman attains these three she has arrived at a maturity which defies the years. Such a person will never lack for attention or friends in the best sense.

The first Third grade class presented a short playlet, "Some Health Rules to Live By", Mrs. J. M. McGhee, Sponsor. The second Third grade class presented a short playlet "It Pays to Obey" sponsored by Mrs. G. Williamson.

From both plays, a lesson of morals was given, so that every student could understand. The plays were summarized by Mrs. E. R. Carter.

Thought For The Day

When you make a mistake, don't look back at it long. Take the reason of the thing into your mind, and then look forward. Mistakes are lessons of wisdom. The past cannot be changed. The future is yet in your power. Hugh White said it.

Arkadelphia Beats Hope Golfers

The Hope High School golf team was defeated last Friday by Arkadelphia High 10½ to 7½ points. The match was played at the Arkadelphia Country Club.

A week ago last Friday the Bobcat golf team was defeated by the Texarkana, Ark., High School team by the same score. Previous to that the local team had defeated Camden and Magnolia. The medalist for the match at Texarkana was Sammy Strong of Hope who shot a score of 76.

The Hope High golf team travels to Camden Tuesday for a return match at the Camden Country Club.

Cosmic Tip Winner of the Derby

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — "Everything was all messed up," said jockey Robert Mundorf.

He was talking about Saturday's wild finish in the $25,000 added Arkansas Derby, won by River Divide Farm's Cosmic Tip, who became the winner when Donald McKellar's longshot Moral Suasion was disqualified.

Lemon Twist, ridden by Billy Phelps, Oaklawn Park's leading rider, finished third.

It all happened so fast that even the jockeys could not explain the finish.

Calvin Stone, who rode Moral Suasion to what at first seemed to be a triumph by a nose, said he thought the stewards' inquiry concerned horses behind him.

Films confirmed that Moral Suasion bore out, interfering with Blaze Starr and Trolling Bim.

When the verdict was announced Stone walked away in tears. E. G. Mahoney of Hot Springs, trainer of Cosmic Tip, turned from disappointment to exultation when the final result was announced.

He said he thought Moral Suasion was drifting out near the finish line.

Oddly enough, Mahoney said Cosmic Tip does not prefer mud, and the track Saturday could only have been classified as muddy.

"But he made up lots of lengths in that stretch and all on a sloppy track," Mundorf said. He brought the horse from dead last in the field of eight.

Snow Fort finished third in the official ruling.

The disqualification of Moral Suasion recalled a similar ending of the 1961 derby in which Light Talk replaced Bass Clef as the winner.

About 60 per cent of the almost 1,200 horses were shipped away from the track before Saturday's closing. All of the others will depart within two weeks.

Phelps took jockey honors with 43 triumphs—two short of the record set last year by Larry Spraker. Stone was a distant second.

Ortiz Looks to Another Title Bout

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP)—Lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz, who turned back the Sunday night challenge of Cuban Doug Vaillant, with the greatest of ease, looked to his next title defense today—and he looked over, around and right past No. 1 contender Kenny Lane.

Ortiz barely worked up a sweat, before 18,000 hometown fans as he disposed of Vaillant, who now fights out of Miami, Fla., on a technical knockout in 49 seconds of the 13th round.

It was his second defense of the 135-pound crown. Ortiz was guaranteed $50,000. Vaillant $6,500. The crowd paid about $100,000.

Bill Daly, Ortiz' adviser, flew into a dressing room rage when reminded after the fight that the World Boxing Association had given the champion until June 2 to defend against Lane, a southpaw from Muskegon, Mich.

Lane has long accused Ortiz of ducking him, as he did Joe Brown, who lost the crown to Ortiz last April in Las Vegas.

"We will fight the best fighter at the best price at the best time," Daly said, and he made it clear that almost certainly was not going to be Lane.

Ortiz was mobbed by jubilant Puerto Ricans, who had never before had a chance to see him fight.

"I was surprised that Vaillant stood up that long," he said. "He seemed to be wobbly from the first round I was in command all along, and I was never worried."

He drew blood from Vaillant's nose in the sixth and from a cut beside his left eye in the eighth, and rocked the Cuban repeatedly in the 12th. He was far ahead on all cards.

In the final round, Ortiz knocked Vaillant to the canvas with a half-right after 15 seconds. The Cuban

Major Leagues Open Baseball Season Today

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Four new managers, four dozen new players, and a new strike zone help bring in the new major league season today.

As has been the custom for some time, Washington in the American League and Cincinnati in the National got a 24-hour jump on the other clubs with games today. The Baltimore Orioles were the Senators' rivals in the nation's capital while the Pittsburgh Pirates were the Reds' opponents at Crosley Field.

The other clubs will launch their pennant drives Tuesday.

President Kennedy had his right arm cranked up for the traditional first toss at Washington's D.C. Stadium. Thereafter the pitching was to be in the hands of left-handers Don Rudolph (8-10) of the Senators and Steve Barber (9-6) of the Orioles. Some 47,000 spectators were expected.

Another capacity crowd, some 30,000 fans, was assured for the Cincinnati opener. Southpaw Jim O'Toole (16-13) of the Reds and righthander Earl Francis (9-8) of the Pirates were the scheduled hurlers.

In the Tuesday National League opener, the San Francisco Giants will be starting the defense of their National League crown in Houston. Los Angeles will play the Cubs in Chicago. Milwaukee will meet the Pirates in Pittsburgh. The Reds will help the Phillies begin the season in Philadelphia.

All games will be played in the afternoon except for the night opener in Philadelphia.

A night opener also has been scheduled in the American League Tuesday with the Boston Red Sox engaging the Angels under the lights in Los Angeles. The New York Yankees will start proceedings against the Athletics in Kansas City, the Chicago White Sox play the Tigers in Detroit, and the Twins will be host to the Cleveland Indians in Minnesota.

Washington and Baltimore will be idle Tuesday.

The Yankees ruled a powerful 1-to-3 favorite to register their third straight American League pennant. A three-team battle involving the Giants, Dodgers and Reds has been predicted in the National.

Off-season trades, of which there were a record number, were expected to spice the pennant races. All clubs except the Twins, who finished second last year, participated.

The Yankees open with Joe Pepitone at first base after having traded Bill Skowron to the Dodgers for pitcher Stan Williams. Detroit has a new catching staff consisting of veteran Gus Triandos and rookie Bill Freehan and a new relief pitcher, Bob Anderson.

Baltimore, which may have made the most judicious trades of all clubs, start newcomers Luis Aparicio at shortstop, Al Smith in right field, Dick Brown and John Orsino behind the plate, Joe Garbino in the outfield and Pete Burnside and Stu Miller on the mound.

Cleveland acquired two new first basemen, veteran Joe Adcock and young Fred Whitfield. The Indians' big boast, however, are three flashy rookies, shortstop Tony Martinez, third baseman Max Alvis and center fielder Vic Davillio.

Boston augmented its attack by the acquisition of right-handed slugger Dick Stuart and Roman Mejias.

The White Sox, rebuilding youth, will depend upon newcomers Pete Ward at third base, Dave Nicholson in the outfield and Ron Hansen at shortstop. They also have added Hoyt Wilhelm, the veteran relief artist.

Washington, trying desperately to escape the American League basement, has made numerous changes while the Angels are hoping Bob Turley, former Yankee pitching ace, earns a starting job. Kansas City has a pair of newcomers in pitcher Ted Bowsfield and outfielder Chuck Essegian.

In the National League, the Dodgers will present a better balanced batting order because of the addition of the right-handed slugger Skowron. Los Angeles may also open with a pair of rookies, second baseman Nate Oliver and third baseman Ken McMullen.

The Giants have the same team that won the pennant, plus a couple of pitchers acquired from Baltimore, Jack Fisher and Billy Hoelt. The Reds will introduce two of the most promising rookies in the league in outfielder Tommy Harper and second baseman Pete Rose.

The Cardinals appear to have benefited themselves greatly and Nicklaus for top spot, finished through trades that brought outfielder George Altman, shortstop Dick Groat and pitcher Ron Taylor. Pittsburgh traded three-fourths of its regular infield, acquiring in return, pitcher Don

Kennedy to Toss First Baseball

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy keeps alive a half-century old tradition today by throwing out the first ball to start the American League baseball season.

He may have to get along without the traditional hot dog and soda pop.

Unless there is a last-minute agreement between stadium concessionaires and their employees, who want more money, the vendors won't be on hand when Kennedy continues the custom begun in 1910 by President William Howard Taft.

A crowd of 45,000 is expected to witness the righthanded toss by Kennedy that will set off a scramble among Washington Senators and Baltimore Orioles for a treasured souvenir.

The Senators have split the two previous Kennedy openers.

Bobby Bragan, Milwaukee's new pilot has managed at Pittsburgh and Cleveland. Birdie Tebbetts, the Indians' new skipper, has had tenures at Cincinnati and Milwaukee.

Porkers Return to Spring Grid Practice Today

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) —

The University of Arkansas Razorbacks continue spring football practice today after a one-day rest.

The Razorbacks held their first scrimmage of the spring session Saturday with a ½ hour film session which Coach Frank Broyles said was unimpressive.

Broyles said there was not enough hitting. He added that the defense controlled the ball well and allowed few touchdowns.

However, Broyles said that it was early in the spring season and the defense has the advantage.

"We're not quite as aggressive as we have to be," he said. "I would have been disappointed if there had been a lot of touchdowns."

Two more backs went on the injury list after the Saturday session. Junior letterman Kenny Hatfield pulled a muscle Saturday, an ailment that kept him out of the spring session most of last year.

Wingback Stan Sparks popped a shoulder out of joint Friday and was not at practice Saturday.

One bright spot in the Saturday session came when kicking specialist Tom McNelly booted a 39-yard field goal. He later missed a 41-yard attempt.

Broyles said films of the Saturday session would be graded and the squad realigned today.

Nicklaus Hits Masters at Augusta

By KEN ALYTA

Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—The 27th Masters golf tournament is in the record books. The cold statistics will reveal for all time that bulky Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, scored 286 and won the tournament by one stroke over Californian Tony Lema.

But the record books won't tell the complete story of the tournament, of the fate that befell those who almost won—but.

Take Lema, for example. The 29-year-old ex-Marine is in his eighth year as a professional but it wasn't until last fall that he began to attract attention by winning tournaments.

A double bogey 7 he shot on the eighth hole of the first round came back to haunt him Sunday. Had he parred the hole he, not Nicklaus, would be the proud owner of the traditional Masters champion green jacket.

Sam Snead is another case in point. The slammer will be 51 next month, but he played with the zest of a man half that age in finishing tied for third with Julius Boros at 288, two strokes back of the winner.

Sam was after a record fourth Masters title and, no doubt, in weeks to come he'll reflect on double bogeys he shot on the 12th and 13th holes in the third round.

A ripple of excitement charged the course Sunday when Snead suddenly shot into the lead with back-to-back birdies on 14 and 15. That put him two under par and two shots ahead of Nicklaus and Julius Boros, who were three holes behind.

But on the last three holes Sam hit two of what he called "my three bad iron shots of the round." The other was a missed shot to the ninth green.

Then there was Gary Player, the 1961 Masters champion. He started the round five shots off the lead.

Through 15 holes he was four under par with four birdies and 11 pars. He called a missed putt on the short 16th the key to his fate.

As for Palmer, he must wait another year to launch his treasured bid for a "grand slam" of the Masters, U
